Director's Corner:

Prayers for everyone's health and well-being during this most difficult time.

I miss you all and wish as you do that the car lines were up and running, laughter, smiles and little ones were streaming through our halls, and classrooms were full of happily engaged children and teachers. Instead, the reality is that we are all staying at home and waiting and wondering for the moment life will begin to return to normal. Until schools can open their doors once again, we will continue to provide a connection to school with daily lesson plans, website display of pictures, Zoom virtual learning, and email communications. I want you to know that the teachers are working diligently to partner with you through this trying period. The dates listed above are with hope, but also the knowledge, that events in April may not take place. We are still taking the emails for Drop-in registration for May and we will respond to you.

Phone Conferences – We will provide our Parent Teacher conferences by phone. You will be notified as to scheduling for these to take place during the middle of April.

Zoom Sessions – This platform has been in place with the Kindergarten classes. We started with the younger children with their Library time last Friday and this past Monday. Other classes have begun initiating their own meetings as well. Our goal is for these sessions to bring comfort and a joyful distraction during the long days. However, I feel very strongly that this type of interaction for many children can be very stressful. It is completely your option whether your family joins in. Also, as a school, it is vital that every person online for these sessions strictly adhere to the No Recording and No Screen Shot mandates we have in place for these events. With any online platform there are security risks involved and the controls we have in place alleviate some of those risks, such as do not share login and password information with anyone who is not directly involved in that particular session. If you have any questions, feel free to contact me via email at wnskdesk@gmail.com. And again, you and your child's participation in these sessions is a personal decision. Thank you.
